working in 2
of the quadrants.

The roses have really come back since the hard prune on 2/23. Here Virginia Waters is picking up petals that have fallen to use in our potpourri sachets being sold in the Gift Shop.

Anne Nourse,
Rose Garden
Coordinator, is deadheading
the spent blossoms to allow for new growth.

Left: Karen York,
President, raking the
mulch.

Right: Linda Trottier
working on the vines
on one of the moongates.

The moongate vines are regularly trimmed or tied up to enable people to pass under them without the vines touching their heads.

Several different colors of pentas were added as the accent flower in front of each quadrant on 3/3.
